Barstow Children's Pageant Philosophy

~ Introducing your child to pageants is like placing them in dance class or on a sports team—it is something parents do for the child's personal growth & development ~
Competing in a pageant should be a fun and rewarding experience for both the child and parent. It is an opportunity for the child to meet other children with similar interests, gain confidence, self-esteem and a feeling of accomplishment. A pageant should also teach sportsmanship and self-improvement. Although every child wins a trophy, sash & crown or tiara, our exclusive titles are earned by the contestant, helping to instill in them at an early age, the importance of perseverance and humility. It should be the child's desire to compete, if they are of an age to choose for themselves. For the parent, it's a chance to teach a healthy competitive attitude, build character and share in the child's accomplishments and success, whether they win a title or just finish what they started. It is important that children look like children. Any make-up for children should be extremely subtle. We want our titlists to learn the value of commitment and the importance of community service.

We encourage that any Cash Awards be saved for the child's college education
